the school official pooh-poohed it and told the boy not to worry about such ridiculous stories, finkel wrote on a survivors blog.

A small intravenous needle or catheter is temporarily placed into a vein as the nutrients are introduced slowly according to cocktail being administered.